It gives me immense pleasure to see the revised edition of the "Health Facilities 2009". There is always a need for comprehensive and latest information regarding the availability of the health care facilities being provided by various agencies in Delhi. This publication is an excellent compilation and will be of great help to the health care providers in the State of Delhi so that they can plan and utilize the available resources optimally with the objective of providing better health care to the citizen of Delhi. The effort is appreciable considering that the publication provides a quick view of each health facility as per assembly constituencies, district wise and agency wise.

I congratulate the Directorate of Health Services, for the commendable work done in bringing out this valuable publication.

In Delhi, Health Facilities are being provided by multiple governmental agencies in addition to the private sector. This publication of "Health Facilities" will help our officials and planners to ensure optimum utilization of resources available. It will also help the average citizen to maximize his health coverage.

State Health Intelligence Bureau under Directorate of Health Services, has done a massive exercise and come out with this publication identifying the various services delivery outlets being provided by different agencies. I appreciate the work done by Directorate of Health Services, especially Dr. Arun Banerjee (CMO, SHIB) in this laudable endeavor.

PREFACE

It is a matter of immense pleasure to bring out the fourth edition of the "Health Facilities in Delhi". This publication contains the information on health outlets functioning under state and central govt., autonomous bodies of state and central govt., non-govt. organizations including private sector compiled on the basis of agencies, districts & assemblies.

In National Capital Territory of Delhi, health care services are being provided by a number of agencies functioning under state and central govt., local self government bodies (MCD, NDMC, Cantonment Board), non-govt. organizations including private sector. In Delhi, private sector has also evolved as an important health care provider to the citizens of Delhi. To enumerate these facilities in a single publication and to correlate them is an uphill task especially, when many of these are working independently and to have the overall picture of health care services in Delhi such a compilation becomes necessary.

I congratulate Dr. Arun Banerjee and his team for bringing out this publication. For SHIB, it is an achievement which, despite acute shortage of staff in the branch and heavy work load, have been successful in bringing out this publication. The efforts of staff of SHIB and Computer Cell, Sh. J.K. Arora, Statistical Officer, Sh. M. M. Chandra, Programmer, Sh Vijay Kumar, Prog. Asstt. 'B', Ms. Ratna Bhattacharya, PHN, Sh. S. K. Aggarwal, Statistical Assistant, particularly in scrutiny & compilation of data and information and Ms. Shweta Suman, Stenographer for decent typing work are appreciated and lauded.

Suggestions for further improvement of this publication are always welcome and will be appreciated.

INTRODUCTION

Dr. Arun Banerjee

Delhi, being the national capital has one of the largest health infrastructure among the cities of the world. Area wise Delhi is expanding very fast and to provide health facilities to the remotest household is a challenge which is, though herculean, is being faced by both of the government and private sector and both the sector are fully dedicated to this endeavour. This is the highlight of this publication as it shows the health facilities existing in every corner of Delhi.

Health is the priority of the government and to provide health care to all is its prerogative. As a result, multiple government and non government agencies are involved in providing the health care to various areas of the capital. Therefore, we have hospitals under CGHS, Delhi Government, MCD, NDMC, ESI and so on. Similarly there are dispensaries and maternity centers run by different agencies. This again explains the vastness and variegated nature of health providers in the capital.

This Directorate, being one of the nodal agencies involved in providing comprehensive health care to all sections of the society, is continuously monitoring and providing technical know how to achieve the best possible results in health care delivery system.

Although collecting information of each and every health facilities in Delhi is an enormous exercise, yet by its continuous efforts and perseverance, the State Health Intelligence Bureau of this Directorate has received information of most health facilities functioning in Delhi.

The information has been segregated according to the Legislative Assembly, Districts and Agency wise. Hence, we present the entire list of the health facilities in each and every assembly, districts alongwith their telephone numbers and also highlighted the agencies controlling such facilities. Private registered nursing homes having bed strength of 50 and above are also included in the list.. This publication will not only be of use in the planning for health care infrastructure but will also help the citizens of Delhi to decide where to go whenever confronted with a health problem. This book will also be a handy guide for the Members of Legislative Assembly and Administrators as it highlights the available health care facilities in their areas.
